

Make the pure light of your divine knowledge shine within our hearts, loving Master, and open the eyes of our mind to understand the message of your Gospel. Instil in us also the fear of your blessed commandments, so that having trampled down all desires of the flesh, we may pursue a spiritual way of life, thinking and doing all those things that are pleasing to you. For you are the illumination of our souls and bodies, Christ our God, and to you we offer glory, with your eternal Father and your all-holy, good and life-giving Spirit, now and ever and to the ages of ages. Amen.

"Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly," ... not simply dwell, but with great abundance. Listen, therefore, as many of you as live in the world and have the care of spouse and children: To you also [the Apostle Paul] commends especially the reading of the Scriptures and that it should not be done lightly, or in any sort of way, but with much earnestness.

*Saint John Chrysostom (d.407)
Homily IX on Colossians 3:16-17*

Please note that this lectionary is intended as a general guide for personal use for those who wish to follow the pattern of daily readings prescribed by the Orthodox Church through the year. It is not intended for liturgical use except for Sundays as well as major feast days of our Lord Jesus Christ and of the Mother of God. Orthodox Church calendars are readily available online. You may also consult your parish priest for the readings used in your parish or contact the Theological College.
